

What do Humanists think is good?

Think about these rules:

- Be Honest
- Use your mind
- Tell the truth
- Do to other people what you would like them to do to you.

Why people might need these rules or principles?

What kinds of things do people do that are not good? Why do they do them? Is this why humans seem to need rules like these?

These are the kind of rules Humanists try to live by.

Can you rank them:

- 1) more important to less important, from one to four?
- 2) hard to keep, easy to keep, rank from one to four?

Are they actually all connected, and equally hard or important?

What would happen if everyone lived like this? What if everyone did the opposite of this?

Can you think of any film/book/TV characters that live by these humanist rules?

Christians and Humanists have some values the same - and some different.

Humanists believe humans can be good without God.

Watch this video where some humanists describe their beliefs

Who are humanists? » Understanding Humanism